Meet us at the Met: at 10:45 , where I introduce you to some very rich fancy ladies who lived during the Gilded Era in the United States. I will act as your private docent leading you through galleries of families who through the industrial age made great fortunes and spent it on their portraits/furniture/jewelry and more. Families who amassed great fortunes, like the Vanderbilt's, Whitney's and Rockefeller's. The Gilded Age was fun!

We lunch together at the Met cafeteria (not included/sitting together).

Then we continue our journey back in time with a visit to the Neue Galerie, when we will be Privileged to visit on a day Closed to the Public. We will have one of their private docents, introduce us to their special exhibit of Klimt's sensual portraits of women as embodiment of fin-de-siecle Vienna. The influence of fashion design among society women is illustrated by dresses, hats and accessories created just for this exhibition. You may have already been introduced to Klimt and his Women in one of my previous lectures, but there is always more to learn and who can resist his amazing paintings? Also some of these fashions were created for his special fashion designer friend or Lover? You can decide!
