“Meet me at the Metropolitan Museum of Art”

Lecture and tour, followed by art workshop

Thursday January 24th, 2013

Time: 10:30 to 3:00

Start the day, at the group entrance inside the Metropolitan Museum. We will begin our lecture and tour about Greek and Roman Art lead by Sheryl Intrator Urman, artist and art lecturer. Learn about Greek and Roman Art by referring to the book “Percy Jackson and the Olympians”. We will invite you to share your knowledge of mythology and memories about the book with us. Follow Percy’s steps in the museum through characters seen in statues and other art forms at the Met. We will also learn about the art and art forms housed in the Greek and Roman Galleries. Learn how Roman art sprung from ideas and art forms taken from the Greeks. See how the Romans added their own stories and art forms by studying the museum’s collection. Learn about the culture of the two civilizations.

Break for lunch; bring your own lunch or purchase your lunch at the Mets Cafeteria.

Workshop will begin with our visit the European Sculpture Garden, where we will share stories and myths. You will be given instructions about creative writing exercises or a drawing project.

Arrive at steps of Metropolitan Museum at 10:30

Brown bag your lunch, or bring money you will be free to leave us for the lunch hour or stay with us in cafeteria.

Begin our Art workshop approximately at 1:00 to 2:00
